ZANGARA ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY IN MIAMI COUNT

Judge Hears Evidence In Case Before Sentence Is Pronounced

SLAYER OF CERMAK CALLED TO TESTIFY

Tells Why He Attempted To Shoot Roosevelt, Wounded 5 Others

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—Giuseppe Zangara today pleaded guilty to charges of murdering Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago when his mad attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt here February 15 failed. Zangara's plea was entered by Louis F. Twyman, chief of the counsel appointed for him after Zangara himself had said, in response to a query as to guilt by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne: "I want to kill the President. I want to kill all kings and presidents." Zangara apparently started on a lengthy discourse but was halted by Twyman.

Asks Second Count Dropped
The latter said his client would plead guilty to the first count of an indictment returned Monday by a special convened grand jury if the second count was dropped.

The first count charged Zangara with killing Mayor Cermak as he tried to kill the President. The second charged premeditated murder of Mr. Cermak.

Tom Armour of Miami was called as the first witness as Judge Thompson heard evidence according to Florida law, before passing sentence on the assassin.

Zangara already has been sentenced to 80 years' imprisonment on his plea of guilty to charges of attempting to murder the President and three of the persons his bullets struck.

Tried to Divert Aim

Armour told his story of attempting to divert Zangara's aim when the latter fired his pistol five times in Bay Front park.

The second witness, Miss Dixie Herlong, a court reporter, testified about Zangara's statement, delivered she said, "in a reasonably calm way" the night of the shooting.

Zangara said, Miss Herlong testified, "that he attempted to kill President Roosevelt because he did not like presidents and capitalists."

TWO WILL DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Downing Execution Set Tomorrow, Meeker's for March 22

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 9.—John (Red) Downing, 42, must die in the electric chair tomorrow night for the slaying of Mrs. Daniel J. Bonzo, 44, wife of the chief parole and record clerk at Ohio penitentiary.

The prisoner's last hope was blasted yesterday when Governor White refused to extend executive clemency.

Mrs. Bonzo was beaten to death in the basement of her home near the penitentiary on October 25.

Downing, a paroled convict who had served six years of a life term for the slaying of a Cincinnati woman, was arrested several hours after the body of Mrs. Bonzo was found by relatives.

He confessed he had struck her with a bottle.

COLUMBUS, O., March 9.—Barring gubernatorial intervention, Herbert W. Meeker will be put to death in the electric chair on March 22 for the slaying of his wife, Gertrude.

The date was fixed by the state supreme court after it refused to review his conviction.

Mrs. Meeker was found beaten to death near her home in Holmes county on May 5, 1931. Meeker confessed implication in the crime but named a neighbor, Howard Young, as the actual killer, charging he struck the woman several times with an automobile tire pump.

Young killed himself when officers went to arrest him at his home. Meeker was sentenced to die February 17, but won a stay pending appeals to the courts.

Trio Suspected For Station Holdups In Several Ohio Cities

LISBON, March 9.—Arrest here of three men, claiming to be residents of Canton, for robbing a filling station at Wellsville last Thursday night, is believed by authorities to have ended a series of filling station robberies extending over a period of several months.

Authorities from Barnesville, New Philadelphia, Cadiz, Canton and Louisville have visited the Wellsville jail and the county jail here since Telmo Gutierrez, Paul Chirumbio and Tony Cugino have been in custody of Sheriff Frank Ballantine to attempt to link them with other robberies.

It is the intention of Prosecutor George L. Lafferty to arraign the trio before the April grand jury.

The three are being held in the county jail here under $5,000 bond each.

Stolen Auto Used In Leetonia Robbery

Investigating the attempted robbery of a safe in the office of the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia at Leetonia, Sheriff Frank Ballantine today reported that a stolen automobile bearing stolen license plates was used by robbers to effect their escape after being discovered by Night Patrolman Carl Shaw.

It has been definitely determined that license plates on the car had been issued at Cincinnati for a Graham-Paige car, and that the car thieves used when in Leetonia was a Plymouth model. The machine was stolen at Newark, O., last December.

An eight-pound sledge hammer, several punches, a box of putty and a stick of dynamite are now in the possession of Sheriff Ballantine.

USE PUBLICITY TO SMOKE OUT GOLD HOARDERS

Federal Reserve Ordered To List Withdrawals Of Gold

AWAITS NATIONAL CURRENCY ISSUE

Approximately One Hundred Million Expected For District

(By Associated Press)
Ohio situation today in brief: Roundup of Ohio gold hoarders started by Cleveland Federal Reserve bank. Close to $160,000,000 in the new United States currency issue expected to flow into Ohio.

State may license brokers to trade in bank passbooks. Scrip plans held up pending federal action but private concerns give "I. O. U.s" to workers.

Legislature plans no new bank legislation until congress acts.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 9.—The big guns of publicity were trained on Ohio gold hoarders today as the entire state waited attentively for the next move by the Roosevelt administration.

The Fourth Federal Reserve bank at Cleveland, under orders to list individuals and firms who have withdrawn gold since Feb. 1, looked for the return of millions of dollars worth of the yellow metal thus smoked out of hiding.

Awaits Currency Issue
At the same time, it anticipated that it would receive approximately $100,000,000 in a new national currency issue. This is the approximate total reserve officials expect will flow into the fourth district for distribution to banks in Ohio, Kentucky, the West Virginia panhandle and Western Pennsylvania.

The amount depends on the total issue with the combined backing of all the nation's reserve banks.

The list of Ohio gold hoarders, one reserve bank official said, would include the names of several persons who have taken out sums in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Although the list will contain thousands of names, the grand total for the district is not expected to be as large as that for most other reserve districts.

Meanwhile, plans of numerous Ohio cities to issue clearing house certificates or scrip were held in abeyance.

Some bankers doubted that the proportion of the new issue that Ohio banks would be permitted to take in return for their stocks of gold and acceptable securities would fill the need completely.

The state law permitting the withdrawal of deposits, they said, might make it necessary for clearing houses to seek permission from the secretary of the Treasury, William H. Woodin, to supplement the available currency with a temporary medium of exchange that could be circulated locally. Many and varying were the plans under consideration.

Use Private Scrip
Some industrial plants, lacking the cash for payrolls, resorted to private scrip. The General Fireproofing Co. of Youngstown paid its employees 60 per cent in non-interest bearing promissory notes, redeemable in six months. Business houses there generally agreed to accept them.

The Trucon Steel Co. used its frozen bank deposits to back a similar method of meeting today's payroll at Youngstown. Its scrip is redeemable March 26.

The Siny Shave Co. at Portsmouth used government bonds to back a $60,000 private issue of scrip for payroll purposes and the Williams Manufacturing Co. at Portsmouth, adopted a like method.

ASKS CONGRESS FOR POWER TO PROVIDE CURRENCY EXPANSION

President Cites Initial Steps In Restoration Of Confidence

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Roosevelt in his message to congress today proposed immediate opening of all sound banks and provisions for currency expansion during the banking reorganization.

The text of his message follows: "To the senate and house of representatives:

"On March 3, banking operations in the United States ceased. To review at this time the causes of this failure of our banking system is unnecessary. Suffice it to say that the government has been compelled to step in for the protection of depositors and the business of the nation.

"Our first task is to reopen all sound banks. This is an essential preliminary to subsequent legislation directed against speculation with the funds of depositors and other violations of position of trust.

Asks For Power
"In order that the first objective—the opening of banks for the resumption of business—may be accomplished, I ask of the congress the immediate enactment of legislation giving to the executive branch of the government control over banks for the protection of depositors; authority forthwith to open such banks as have already been ascertained to be in sound condition and other such banks as rapidly as possible; and authority to reorganize and reopen such banks as may be found to require reorganization to put them on a sound basis.

"I ask amendments to the Federal Reserve act to provide for such additional currency, adequately secured, as it may become necessary to issue to meet all demands for currency and at the same time to achieve this end without increasing the unsecured indebtedness of the government of the United States.

"I can not too strongly urge upon the congress to clear necessity for immediate action. A continuation of the strangulation of banking facilities is unthinkable. The passage of the proposed legislation will end this condition and, I trust, within a short space of time will result in a resumption of business activities.

Seeks New Relationship
"In addition, I am in belief that this legislation will not only lift immediately all unwarranted doubts and suspicions in regards to banks which are 100 per cent sound but will also mark the beginning of a new relationship between the banks and the people of this country.

"The members of the new congress will realize, I am confident, the grave responsibility which lies upon me and upon them.

"In the short space of five days it is impossible for us to formulate completed measures to prevent the recurrence of the evils of the past. This does not and should not, however, justify any delay in accomplishing this first step.

"At an early moment I shall request of the congress two other measures which I regard as of immediate urgency. With action taken thereon we can proceed to the consideration of a rounded program of national restoration.

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Dan Cupid Takes Setback, Along With Banks

(By Associated Press)
"Cupid" apparently has taken a big setback due to the general tying up of bank deposits.

For two days, not a couple applied for a marriage license at Dayton, while a single license was granted at Cleveland yesterday.

The swanky "Castle Club" at Akron closed "due to prevailing conditions."

A few Cleveland stores offered to throw in commodities with purchase made for cash. A gasoline station posted this sign:

"A loaf of bread or five pounds of potatoes free with every five gallons of gas."

More gold was turned in at Cleveland bank yesterday than had clicked on their counters in months. A chauffeur came in to one bank carrying thousands of dollars worth of the metal in his employer's hat.

The employer, he explained, did not wish to be seen returning the gold.

Thirty-five Madison (O.) merchants issued $500 worth of scrip.

How It Is Abroad

Philippine banks have not curtailed their operations as a result of the holiday in the United States.

KANSAS CITY—The Kansas City livestock exchange plans to close at 2 p. m. today for the remainder of the week.

Ohio Speakeasies Will Be Raided In Face Of U. S. Order

COLUMBUS, March 9.—Speakeasies in Ohio will continue to be raided, despite an order of Federal Prohibition Director Woodcock calling off his agents.

Police warned today that the state's prohibition law still stands and will be enforced. Woodcock's order called upon his agents to concentrate on manufacture and transportation of liquor, leaving the speakeasies to the states.

However, at Cleveland, where the law enforcement policy does not include cooperation with federal authorities in investigating speakeasies, Police Chief George J. Matowitz said: "We will follow the same policy we have in the past."

Enforcement "until our legal responsibilities in this matter have been altered or discontinued" was promised by Cincinnati officials, while in Akron police asserted the state law would be enforced.

Dayton and Youngstown police said raids would be continued.

Pending receipt of Woodcock's statement, federal prohibition investigators declined to comment.

COLONEL WOODCOCK EXPLAINS

Colonel Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the prohibition bureau, seems to have a joyous good time in one of the most thankless jobs in Washington. The colonel bounces to impossible attacks on an elastic outlook. He has just come up from a bonecrushing blow with new vigor.

Sly congressmen fixed his bureau's appropriation for him so that his agents wouldn't be able to spend the people's money to buy evidence in speakeasies. Obviously, a federal prohibition agent without evidence is, to say the least, handicapped. Since bartenders aren't in the habit of giving away drinks and since the doughty "fedgies" aren't putting out their own money for fun, it will be closed season on speakeasies from now on.

With solemnity that would be a credit to a leading man, Colonel Woodcock has turned the states loose on them. In most cases, of course, the states lost interest years ago. Excepting those ardently ardent regions where a majority still demands strict enforcement of all prohibition laws, there will be precious little state enforcement. The depression is lifting for speakeasy proprietors and their overlords.

But notice how the colonel takes it and comes up smiling. He does not give wet congressmen the pleasure of seeing him suffer. He declares, on the contrary, that his bureau has been given by congress. "In its wisdom," an appreciated advantage. Without the necessity of wasting time moping up the floor, agents will be able to devote themselves night and day to the job of repairing the leak. They will conduct an intensive drive on the concealed distilleries and breweries which have been inundating this nominally dry nation.

Judging from the way Colonel Woodcock got his teeth into his job when he dared to take it in the early days of the Hoover administration and realizing how he has battled tirelessly against overwhelming odds ever since, the big fellows had better keep their eyes peeled. "I confidently believe this bureau can be made to operate more efficiently under the new plan than the old," he says. And the chances are 100 to 1 that he really means it. The colonel's fight may be lost but the enemy isn't going to forget that the people are still paying him to enforce a law they have repudiated.

LEGISLATURE HIGHLIGHTS

(By Associated Press)

Thumbnail sketch of activities in the legislature.
Having passed laws to protect the assets of banks and insurance companies, the legislature is expected to extend aid to the home-owner before recessing.

Gov. White, who recommended the bank and insurance laws, has approved the Whittemore bill to permit installment payment of delinquent taxes. The measure has passed the senate.

Bills intended to provide relief from mortgage foreclosures also are being studied by the administration.

Prohibition entered the legislative picture again yesterday when the house passed the Smolka bill to make state liquor prescription laws conform with federal regulations. The measure now goes back to the senate for concurrence in a minor amendment.

Bills passed by the senate and awaiting house action would create a state relief fund, aid property owners unable to collect rents, permit judges to place liquor law violators on probation, and provide for distribution of intangible tax surpluses.

The old age pension bill is ready for a senate vote. It was passed by the house yesterday.

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, March 9.—They are never seen along Broadway or even Park or Fifth ave. They may be seen only in shadows of a closing day, walking in detached penseroso from the Union League, and other starchy clubs, to their homes—mostly in the Murray Hill environs. Baird Leonard monotypes them, in "The New Yorker," as "The Gentleman of the Old School." The only time they ever are seen on Broadway is to debauch, perhaps from a carriage and pair, at the opera. Tailors come to their houses with samples—samples always of dark blue, dark gray or black.

The barber, too, comes to the house weekly, for those venerable aristocrats never visit the barber-shop. They are supporters of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts, the Bronx Zoo and S. P. C. A. They address letters to the Park Commissioner, in the Times, about the deplorable condition of the Mall.

Outside of the opera, they only tend their personal affairs. They are seen in the morning, and vanishing at the Academy. Their favorite authors are Hardy, Meredith and Stevenson. They are the very last of the buttonhole buyers and users of dry clothing.

The imported marionette show, a hit in a difficult season, revealed that 36 persons were required to manipulate the strings. They are expertly trained to use their fingers, feet, hands and elbows. It is an amazing feat in rhythmic timing. As Tony Sang says, they must know their ropes. And J. P. Morgan or his double act in front of me, eagerly applauding.

Incidentally, the box-office zero for all seasons was established at one theater here recently. The intake for a single performance was less than $5.

Noel Coward's at-home costume is a shawl collared, deep purple smoking jacket, dark gray trousers, Russian house boots and a snow-white stock. All of which means a sudden market for these articles of dress.

lunchroom tradition are Weber and The only toss-backs to that Fields, who occupy their same familiar table at the Astor. The last remnants of the old guard.

There used to be a venison and oldale-B-powder-must-plum in 33d—the name escapes me—lively with noon-day clamour, when Broadway was a street. I remember going there, with Lee Kugel, to meet the late Henry B. Harris. At the table were: Robert Hilliard, with lapel nosegay; Ralph Hertz, who wore a stock of pink, and Eddie Dunn, sporting the first deep purple vest I ever beheld. They spoke familiarly of Lillian Russell, as Lillian; and Ray Templeton, as Ray. It was a Valhalla of those bleak, commafixing, copy-reading days, and marked a discovery. Some one mentioned that over at Hammerstein's was a young comedian, assisting Ben-dict and Arthur, who bore watching. I went over and saw Eddie Cantor.

Thingsmabobs: Tommy Milhard has spent five years of his life on the ocean. Randy Hurst has added a pet white rabbit to her collection. Gil Boag, one-time night club king is looking for a night spot in Paris. Frank Buck and wife often stay up all night—working jig-saw puzzles. Noel Coward's signature looks like a couple of hen tracks. Arthur Somers Roche half-soled his shoes with card-board one Park Row winter. Now look! Bob Bend is launching a play called "The Black Geese." Carolyn Wells spends extra pin money on shoes. Joan Crawford now owns the Kohinoor of Hollywood. Eugene Conrad thought up Gracie Allen's "lost brother" stunt. The Ring Lardners are wintering in California.

And with all my anxieties, Harry Silvey would have to telephone to acquire if it is all right to call a chiroprapist a dog doctor.

"Ringing in Ears" Means Trouble

Recently I told you about the causes of common ear complaints and tried to advise you how to prevent them. Today, I want to point out some of the complications that may follow the neglect of ear trouble.

Many persons are unaware of certain symptoms from which they suffer. Really come from ear trouble. For example, vertigo, or dizziness, is sometimes a sign of a chronic inflammation in the ear. Few realize this.

Of course, not all cases of dizziness are caused by ear diseases. Impacted teeth, eye disturbances, diseases of the heart and blood vessels, stomach or intestinal ailments, poisoning by quinine, alcohol or other drug, may produce dizziness.

"Meniere's disease" is the name given to a group of symptoms which may be caused by various afflictions of the ear, or the nerve of the ear. Vertigo, that is dizziness, is a characteristic sign of this disease. The vertigo, or dizziness may be so marked as to cause the sufferer to lose his balance and fall to the ground. Sudden loss of hearing and ringing in the ears are other signs of Meniere's disease.

Ringing in the Ears
"Tinnitus," or ringing in the ears, is a common complaint in chronic disorders of the ear. It is usually described as a ringing, or a hissing sound like the escape of steam. Often it is the only warning of increasing loss of hearing. The sufferer is astonished when the hearing is tested and he finds himself to be partially deaf.

Tinnitus is sometimes found in certain constitutional disorders. For example, it may be a symptom of high blood pressure, Bright's disease, anemia, or thyroid disturbance.

Tinnitus is usually worse at night. Indeed, it may be entirely absent during the day time. In certain cases it may disappear for months and then reappear. It usually disappears in the late stages, just prior to the complete loss of hearing.

Such names as "vertigo" and "tinnitus" are not important to most of us. But since they are generally used in conversation and discussions about diseases of the ear, I mention them. If you have either, or any complaint similar to those I have described, I urge you to consult with your doctor.

Fortunately, Meniere's disease is a rare affliction. But there are innumerable forms of ear disturbances which, if neglected, lead to partial or complete deafness.

No matter what its cause, deafness is a handicap and a stumbling block to happiness. Most cases can be traced to carelessness and the early neglect of ear complaints, which are curable in the beginning.

Answers to Health Queries
B. Q.—Is there a cure for auto-intoxication and a catarrhal condition of the intestines? 2. What would cause a breaking out or rash on the body, somewhat similar to mosquito bites?

A.—Try to find the underlying source of infection first of all. Careful diet and proper elimination should be of general benefit under the circumstances. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

25,000 STUDENTS
CO-EDUCATION
BREAKING STEEL

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

GALLUP, N. Mex. — Traveling back toward the Atlantic through Chicago, Detroit and other powerful troubled cities, you leave many wonders and hopes for the future on the great American empire that stretches along the Pacific coast.

The giant ocean that nothing troubles is there, wealth unlimited in the soil, the groves, oil wells, gold mines and the brilliant sun that produces them all.

Greatest of all in purpose, hope for the future, is the University of California, with its 25,000 young students, earnest devoted teachers and brilliant corps of scientists, constantly working in their laboratories to attain greater prosperity, happiness, safety and power for the human race.

JOHN FRANCIS NEYLAN, distinguished successful lawyer of San Francisco, also a regent of the University of California, a job that brings him nothing but honor and arouses his deepest interest, undertakes in two days, one on each side of the great bay of San Francisco, to show you 1 per cent of what the University of California is doing.

Mr. Neylan's formula for this country and the outside world is simple.

The United States is the greatest country in the world. California is the greatest state in this country. San Francisco is the greatest city in California or anywhere else on earth, and the University of California is the culminating glory of this planet, the universe in which it rolls, and the distant unseen nebulae universe also, for that matter.

For that plain statement of facts, as he calls it, Mr. Neylan will argue or fight, preferably both.

SCOME, backward, will ask, "But does co-education, bringing young men and women together in the university not result in too hasty marriages?" The answer is simple: "One marriage out of every six in the United States ends in divorce, while of marriages brought about at co-educational institutions, not more than one in 75 results in failure." Co-educational marriages are therefore more than 1200 per cent more successful than the average.

Studying for three or four years, beside the young man of her choice, she knows what he amounts to, and need not take his word for it. She knows how well he studies, whether or not he is good at athletics, which is not important, whether he is a good loser and not a braggart when he wins, which is very important.

A girl attending the University of California sees a thousand young men and more she can choose.

YOU enter a hall 100 feet high and see a gigantic machine in the center capable of exerting fearful strength in crushing or in tension. As you enter, the giant machine, with trained professors of physics directing mechanics, is about to test the strength of a bar of high quality steel six inches in diameter.

Moved to an upper gallery you look down upon the performance. There is no knowing what unexpected results the application of great force may produce.

The steel bar is drawn out slowly without sound as its particles are dislocated. Finally it gives way breaking with a most horrible roar that startles even those accustomed to such tests and shakes the building.

It has taken a pull of 1,400,000 pounds to break that little 6-inch bar. Yet the force that you have just seen exerted would not pull up any of the atoms that make up that steel bar, of which a million might be invisible in the palm of your hand. Thus little facts make you understand that this universe was built to "stay put."

IN another building you meet Professor E. L. Lawrence, only 32 years old, engaged in "bombarding" those recalcitrant atoms, driving the electrons shining from the nuclei to which they cling as our planet clings to its sun. He develops fantastic figures in electric power by strange methods with complicated apparatus that would make the cavern of an ancient alchemist look as simple as a baby's playroom.

President Sproul, who accompanies you, explains that much less labor, trouble, time and expense are needed to build a model of the bridge as it will be than to work out the mathematical calculations necessary to insure certainty of safety.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and a beach in your mouth, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. Put this task to liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Rem. Co. a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

What Others Say

MR. GREEN'S ERROR.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor says that "labor can never become reconciled to the selection" of Frances Perkins as President Roosevelt's secretary of labor. This is not only a demonstration of doubtful sportsmanship, it illustrates again the blindness of the group that leads the Federation.

The mass of American workers and ex-workers will have little sympathy with Mr. Green's apparent idea that the labor portfolio in the Cabinet is the property of the labor unions. Numerically the Federation represents only a small portion of the nation's workers.

The masses, for whom the government must speak, will welcome this appointment. It signals a change from the antiquated ideal and methods of the last two secretaries, Mr. Davis and Mr. Dock.

Miss Perkins' selection perhaps more than any other of the Roosevelt appointments promises a new deal for America's forgotten men and women.

Miss Perkins' life has been a record of courageous devotion to the aims of organized labor. She has fought for workmen's compensation, safety laws, sweatshop abatement, decent conditions for New York's working families.

Her reconstruction plans include the 30-hour week; unemployment insurance; prohibition of child labor; old-age pensions; a better system of employment changes; minimum wages; jobless relief, stabilization of industry; other fundamentals of labor's program. A highly intelligent, seasoned and tactful reformer, Miss Perkins should play an important role in the rebuilding of our damaged republic.

Union labor should unite with the American liberals in praising Mr. Roosevelt for choosing Miss Perkins. And it should strive to work with her to achieve their common goal of labor betterment.—Columbus Citizen.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Pretty Mary Kennedy breaks her engagement to elderly Buck Landers, wealthy sports promoter, when she falls in love with his young ward, Steve Ward. Landers tries to force Mary to marry him by kidnapping Steve and threatening him, unless she does. He gives Mary twenty-four hours to decide.

She enlists the aid of Carlotta, Landers' former sweetheart, who suggests that a flirtation with Bat may reveal Steve's whereabouts.

Carlotta and Mary go to see Landers and Carlotta warns him against the kidnapping. Landers orders her out. Later, Mary discovers she has Carlotta's bag by mistake. It contains an automatic.

Mary encourages Bat.

Flattered by her attentions, Bat takes Mary to lunch. She hopes the liquor will make him talk.

CHAPTER XXX

Mary said nothing. She was not hungry, but she made a valiant pretense of eating. The beer at her plate was strong and bitter; she disliked it, but managed to drink half a glass. Bat ordered a second glass, and a third. Color began to show in his pasty face.

"I guess this would hand the bunch a kick — me planted here, eating and drinking with Buck's sweetie," he beamed over the table. "Tell me something, girlie—I ain't a bad guy, am I? You like me as well as you do Buck, don't you?"

Mary collected all of her determination—it burned like a fierce flame in the center of her being. Now, if ever, she had to act her part.

"I like you a whole lot better than I do Buck," she said. "I think it's a shame the way he treats you. He ought to be taking orders from you — if you want my opinion."

For an instant she hung in suspense, while she studied his crooked face to see if he was going to fall for this brazen flattery. He put a paw across the table and dropped it upon the back of her small, soft hand. With a shiver, she allowed the contact to remain for a moment and then, releasing her hand, she stretched it idly across the table.

"Give me a cigarette, will you?"

she said, struggling to control the nervousness in her voice.

"Why certainly," Bat said, extending a pack across the table.

If he didn't try to pet, she knew she could see it through. But the pressure of his hand on hers had given her a vile sensation; had momentarily confused her cunning. Fortunately, his conceit, at the moment, was greater than his sensuality; his gesture toward Mary had been half-mechanical.

"Oh, Buck's all right, I guess," Bat said with elaborate condescension.

But Mary was out to arouse his sense of injustice. "I thought you were a smarter man than that, Bat. Why, he talks to you like a servant — like a dog."

"It's just his way," Bat protested, but his voice was surly.

Mary laughed. "If he treats you that way to your face—what do you suppose he says about you behind your back?"

He rapped with his knuckles on the table for the waiter. "Bring me another Scotch. Well, what does he say about me behind my back?"

"I hate to tell you," Mary said. "It might hurt your feelings."

"That's gratitude!"

"Oh, well, you like it. You eat out of his hand, and as long as you keep on being that big fool, Buck will keep on using you for a rummy."

The waiter put a bottle beside Bat. He poured himself a straight drink, and swallowed it at one tilt. Then he poured another and sat looking at it. His face appeared more crooked than ever. Before he spoke again, he lifted the glass to his shant-mouth and drained it.

"I'll show him," Bat said. His face was a repellent, sallow mask. "I'll show him something, too. To hell with Landers! Come on—let's get out of here."

He was half drunk. It certainly looked as though she was beginning to win.

"Let's go and see Steve," she said, tensely persuasive.

"You wanna see Steve?" he questioned thickly, screwing up his eyes.

"Sure — unless you're afraid to take me to him."

"I ain't afraid of nothing. Nobody ain't gonna office-boy me around, and make me like it."

They left the chop house and, as soon as they reached the pavement, Mary walked to the curb with him and stopped. "Shall we get a taxi, Bat?"

"Yeah, I don't feel like walking around."

They halted a machine, and Bat mumbled an address to the driver. He sat silently beside Mary while they drove, his face smug with malicious satisfaction. He spoke aloud once to himself: "Let him boss some other guy around like a bum!"

They got out and he paid the driver with some small change. It was a shabby neighborhood with tenements on both sides of the street. Children played ball in the street, dodging between trucks.

"We'll walk a ways," Bat said stolidly. "Just walk along quiet."

They crossed another street and, at the intersection, Mary glanced up at the street signs and fixed the location definitely in her mind. Bat stopped in front of a cigar store, and lit a cigarette.

"This is as far as we go," he said. "Look across the street—follow the houses down with your eye, till you come to that one there on the corner. See it?"

"Yes."

"That's it. It's a walk up. You go up two flights, and back down the hall to the last door on the right. It's a flat. That's where your boy friend is."

Mary was trembling all over. "Is he all right, Bat — they haven't hurt him, have they?"

"No, they just tapped him on the head. You wrap a soft rag around the slug and it just stuns 'em, if you don't hit too hard. The boys know how."

"Is he there alone, or is somebody watching him?"

"Probably somebody is with him—how the hell should I know? But listen — I'm going to duck away from the neighborhood right now. You can do what you please. All I ask is, don't ever tip me off to Landers if anything happens. The big stiff! Well, he'll think twice again before he pans me to people, and treats me like a dirty dog. I said I'd show him and I did. What little dough I ever got out of him never bought me any limousines."

He was beginning to move away. Mary was not loathe to see him go. From now on he would be of no service. He had betrayed his chief because he was drinking and, second, because he was a traitor at heart. But he typified the weakness of Landers. In his shady work, Buck, of necessity, had to depend upon men like Bat. Always, the lowliest, meanest had the power and, frequently, the motive to double-cross him.

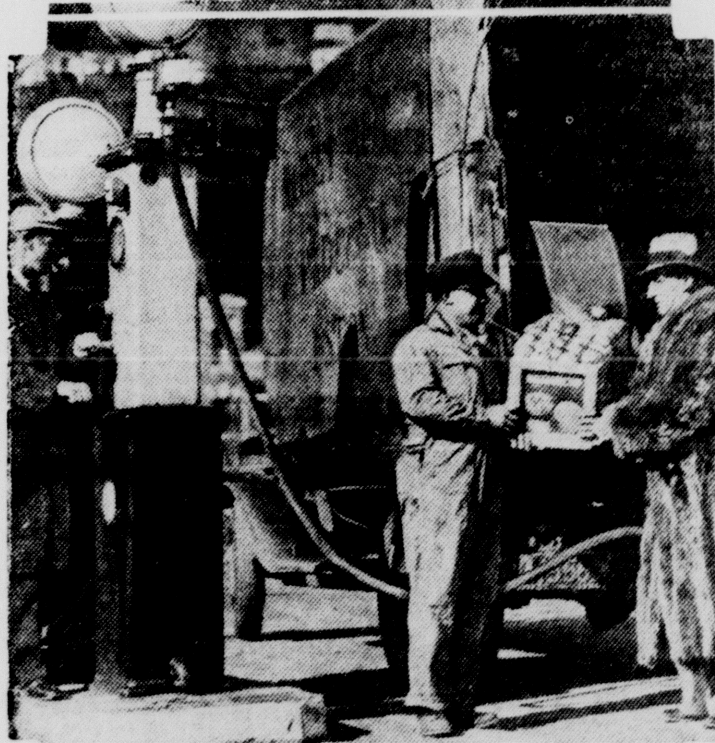

"I got a chance to ride alcohol out of Philadelphia, and I'm going to take it," Bat said boastfully. "I'm through with this town, and this bunch around here. So long, kid, and I hope you put it all over that big stuffed shirt up at the Metropolis."

He went away from her, his lopsided walk keeping him close to buildings, as though he sought to avoid attention. Mary went into the tobacco store and bought a pack of cigarettes. She did not smoke, as a rule, but she, too, wanted to get out of sight for a moment. When she reappeared, she was in the grasp of impatient eagerness that overwhelmed common sense.

At the back of her mind a feeble impulse of caution prompted her to find a policeman—to have him accompany her. But she had been pent up too long for such sensible procedure. An ecstasy, a wild exultation of haste burned and addled her mind. Steve was alive — was waiting for her! Her heart was beating furiously at the thought. She couldn't keep from trembling, and the throbbing engine in her breast drove her forward heedless of any danger. Everything was all right now—Steve was safe! Nobody could keep her from him—not even an army. She crossed the street, and sped toward the house on the corner, her eyes glistening with excitement.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Today's Pattern

DESIGNED IN LARGER SIZES
Pattern 2305

Frocks that really slenderize are always tremendously popular with the matrons. The one sketched today is slender and stunning as well as each line reflects perfect taste, charm and distinction. The large single rever is of contrast, the three-quarter sleeves boast a flared treatment, while a snug hip yoke leaves nothing to be desired for slimmest. A lovely dark print would be very smart.

Pattern 2305 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 1/2 yard 36-inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

The spring fashion book contains 25 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for every spring need. It shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical and easy to make. ### Asks "Honest Vote"

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, March 9.—"The concern of the drays is an honest vote," said S. P. He said nobody seriously questions that in 1917 "the drays were count-

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should be... 'My nerves are all on edge'... 'I wish I were dead'... how often have we heard these expressions from some woman who has become so tired and run-down that her nerves can no longer stand the strain. No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition if she can help herself. She should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For nearly sixty years women have taken this wonderful tonic to give them renewed strength and vigor. 98 out of every 100 women who report to us say that they are benefited by this medicine. ## THE DAY IN SPORTS

BETTING AIDS TREASURY STATE SOLONS ACTIVE

BY FOSTER HALEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, March 9.—In their search for new sources of revenue to replenish depleted treasuries, the legislatures of 20 states have turned to the race track and legalized betting as a possible contributor, a national survey by the Associated Press today disclosed.

Although there is no way of definitely diagnosing legislative attitudes except by past performances—a poor yardstick in these times—correspondents report that racing and betting bills have as good as or better than an even chance of enactment into law in 15 of those states.

Proponents of the various measures, especially in states where racing is allowed either by law or official sufferance, point out that betting is being carried on by one system or another wherever racing is allowed and that the state might as well be getting some revenue from it.

ONLY IN TEXAS has racing been attempted without betting and it was soon given up. Tracks in New York state, deriving no revenue from the millions bet "orally" on their races, have been run at increasing deficits.

Substitutes have been evolved in some states to evade anti-gambling laws. In Ohio at Buxbridge track, the bettors make "contributions," while in California the bettor buys an "option" on the horse. The California courts have held the method legal.

Estimates of the amount possible of collection from fees or pari-mutuel "takes" run all the way from half a million to more than a million dollars. Maryland took in $585,436.38 into the state treasury last year and it is estimated Florida and Kentucky receive a like amount. Illinois gains close to a million yearly.

THE 20 STATES in which legislation is pending are Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Oregon, California, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Minnesota, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Delaware, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri and Alabama. The bills in Alabama and Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Texas are given little chance of enactment. Only one state, Washington, has taken action so far this year. Gov. Martin having signed a bill which legalizes horse racing and pari-mutuel betting. The Indiana senate and assembly passed differing bills which died in joint committee.

The Alabama measure, passed by both houses, is said to face certain veto.

LEGALIZED RACING, with legalized betting, prevails in eight states but the sport itself is legalized altogether in nine states and conducted in ten. The exceptions are New York, which permits racing by law but tolerates an "oral" book-making system of wagering at the tracks, and California, where both racing and a form of wagering are conducted on a limited scale while legislation is being sought. The eight states where both racing and betting are legalized are: Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Nevada, Washington, Illinois and Montana (except on Sundays).

Third Period Rally by Tigers Upsets Salem; Campbell Loses, 22-21

Massillon High's great basketball team proved too strong for Salem High tossers, upsetting the Quakers, 42-27, in a Northeastern Ohio tournament contest at the Goodyear auditorium, Akron, Wednesday night.

The defeat eliminated the Quakers from the sectional competition but advanced the Tigers, ranked foremost among titular contenders, into the semi-finals when they will play Cleveland Holy Name at 7 p. m. Friday.

Akron West and St. Vincent's High teams triumphed in other tourney encounters last night.

Memorial Losses

The West Cowboys, rallying brilliantly after trailing for three periods, nosed out an apparently inspired Memorial High five of Campbell, 22-21, in Wednesday's outstanding contest, while St. Vincent's green-clad tossers had things easy against Buchtel High to win, 21-12.

Massillon, taking the lead in the first minute of play, was pushed hard by the Stonemen for two periods, but pulled out in front by a quick rally in the third quarter that left the Salem lads far in arrears and insured the Tigers of victory.

The Tigers, on field goals by the great Pat Hintz who ran wild to tally 17 points during contest, took a two-point, 7-5, lead in the first period, but Salem kept pace with them, fighting hard and several times threatened to push out in front. Massillon retained its slight lead and was ahead, 14-10, at half time.

Quakers Stage Spurt

Another fielder by Johnson added two points to the Stark county team's column but here the Quakers started their strongest offensive drive, field goals by Wayne Sidinger and Frank Culler and a foul by Bill Pauline counting up five points and the score was 16-15. Hopes for victory began mounting in Salem cheerleaders for the first time but they were soon blasted.

Hintz and Johnson, scoring all-mess at will, took responsibilities in their own hands and registered five field goals—the former three and Johnson two—for ten points and it apparently was all over but the tabulation of the final score. The third period ended with Massillon on top by the decisive 26-15 margin.

Salem tallied twice from the field in the fourth quarter, John Pukalski tipping the leather in from the side and P. Sidinger scoring from long range, but the Tigers were still masters of the situation with the final result never in doubt. With a minute of play remaining Coaches Floyd Stone and Hal Smith substituted frequently, the Salem mentor inserting an entire new squad into action.

West Edges Campbell

Akron West, defending its state championship, was forced to go the limit to nose out Campbell, 22 to 21. The struggle was bitter from the start and the outcome was in doubt until the final gun.

Barb, Campbell forward, flipped in a long toss to tie the score at 6-6 all as the first quarter ended.

Bowling News

COLUMBUS, March 8.—The eyes of the bowling world were trained today on Ohio's capital.

The 33rd annual tournament of the American Bowling congress will get under way tonight with Gov. George White rolling the first ball down one of 28 alleys constructed for the classic at the state fair coliseum.

Undaunted by banking restrictions which have tied up the prize money, thousands of bowlers in all parts of the United States and Canada, were ready to compete in the great pin show.

The $86,000 in prize money has attracted 1,597 five-man teams, 2,329 sets of doubles, and 4,687 individual contestants. The tournament will continue for a month with Ohio teams monopolizing the alleys during the early days.

The fireworks will begin on St. Patrick's day when the out-of-town title aspirants begin their invasion.

HINTZ CAPTURES SECOND LEAGUE SCORING TITLE

Massillon Star Scores 96 Points In N. E. O. Loop Frays This Season

Pat Hintz, sensational Massillon High marksman who last night tallied 17 points to help eliminate Salem High from the Akron tournament won his second individual scoring championship of the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten league, tallying 96 points in league games to lead all other league performers.

Breaks Bill Smith's Record

Setting a new mark of 226 points over the entire season's schedule, Hintz broke a mark of 205 points set by William Smith of Salem during the 1930-31 campaign. However, he failed to break the record set by Smith this same season for league titles. That season, Smith scored 98 points in nine frays, registering 35 field goals and 28 free tosses. In amassing his total of 96 points Hintz set a new mark for field goals with 42.

In leading the scoring for league battles, Hintz replaced Wayne Sidinger of Salem who grabbed the honor last season nosing Larry Russell of Alliance by one point. Last season, Sidinger had 63 points in seven contests. This season, he was 10th with 41 points in five engagements.

Leading the pack, Hintz outdistanced his nearest rival, "Doc" Kelker of Dover by 17 points. Kelker nosed John Scott of Alliance, out by one point for the runner-up place. Kelker had 79 points in eight games while Scott made 78 points in one less battle.

The individual scoring marks of those scoring 10 or more points follow:

Inside Details of His Fight With 'Jim' Corbett Told by M'Coy; Kayoed in 5th Round

BY KID MCCOY
As Told To Pat Purcell

MY FIGHT with Jim Corbett was fought the night of August 30, 1900, and he knocked me out with a punch to the stomach in the fifth round. That much of it is told in the record books of the prize ring, but I think the real story of the events leading up to the match is far more interesting.

Never "Best of Friends"

Gentleman Jim, gone from this world now and a figure who will be revered in sporting annals, and I were never the best of friends. In fact, we were bitter enemies before our fight. Time they say, tempers everything, and I am glad that I can honestly say that I had a wholesome respect for the fine qualities which endeared Corbett to the sporting world in his declining years.

Jim and I were first matched to fight for the Hawthorne Athletic Club in Buffalo late in 1899. The purse was $20,000 and 66 2-3 percent of the motion pictures.

Two weeks prior to the fight, the sheriff announced that he would not tolerate a fight in his domain and ordered officials of the Hawthorne Athletic Club to call it off.

After considerable bickering, the promoters offered to move the contest to Rochester, guaranteeing the same purse. Corbett would not consent to the change, stating that the fight would be held in Buffalo, or there would be no contest. This irritated me as the purse was absolute tops for those days and I wanted to go through with it. I sent Corbett a nasty wire. I said: "Be a man or a monkey but don't crawl!"

Clash On Street

A FEW DAYS later the papers published a statement from Jim saying that he would "pull McCoy's nose the first time I meet him."

The next time I saw Corbett, he and George Considine were walking out of the Cibley House restaurant, smoking cigars, when I entered. As I shook hands with Considine, Corbett walked up and asked, "What do you mean by calling me a monkey?"

Without thinking, I smashed Jim on the mouth. Considine grabbed me, pinning my arms. I got away from him by butting his cigar into his cheek. While this was taking place, several others rushed up and attempted to hold us. Jim managed to break away and when he charged at me I couldn't get loose so I kicked him. Then they managed to separate us and the disturbance was over.

I then forgot about Jim and our troubles for the time being, but shortly after the Horton boxing law was repealed in New York, to go into effect on September 1, 1903.

Big Jim Kennedy wanted to match me with Corbett for the last fight before the game was legislated out, and the papers were signed when he agreed to give us two-thirds of the gross to be divided equally between us, for a 25-round fight on August 30, 1900.

I went to Saratoga to prepare for the fight of my career, and I never worked harder until two weeks before the bout when I received tragic news about my family affairs from the maid in my home in New York. I was heartbroken.

I WENT THROUGH the motions of training in the afternoon but I stopped doing roadwork. My handlers, whom I did not let in on my secret, thought it strange. I stalled them off by telling them I was doing my roadwork at night so as to get accustomed to working at the hour I would have to fight Corbett.

When I stepped into the ring, I don't recall having seen anyone. I was like a man in a daze. I learned afterward that Corbett followed me into the ring and I ignored his effort to shake hands with me. I know that I didn't see him at the time.

First Rounds Hazy

The details of the first four rounds never have been anything more than a hazy recollection to me. I fought instinctively until Jim hit me with a hard punch to the stomach. It took my breath away and I was unable to arise.

There was no mention of fake at the time and everyone seemed to agree that it was a wonderful fight while it lasted. Three or four days later, like the aftermath of almost every fight, there were those who claimed we did business.

There never was any iota of truth in those reports. Jim and I hated each other at that time and we never had a civil word for each other. I don't recall any particularly dirty bits of fighting while we were in the ring but I do remember that we called each other several uncomplimentary names.

Our paths led in different direction after our fight and we never did get really chummy, but as the years passed, we did have kind words for each other when we met.

MY GREATEST THRILL IN SPORTS

BY JOHN W. BRICKER

Attorney General of Ohio
Written For The Associated Press

Strange as it may seem, my biggest thrill in sport came when I was smashed flat on home plate by a 250 pound baseball player.

In college I have caught no-hit games, hit home runs and stolen a few bases; that's why I say it seems strange to regard my biggest thrill as an accident.

Here's how it happened:
In the spring of 1914 I was the varsity catcher for the Ohio State university nine. We were playing Ohio Wesleyan for the state championship. Along toward the latter part of the game, "Fat" Harris, ponderous and perspiring, tried to slide home.

I blocked the plate and would have had him out, but a few feet away "Fat" caught his spikes and fell on me. Really, it was the darkest moment of my life. In fact, everything was black.

A few seconds later I experienced the thrill of all thrills—when I found I was still alive and no bones broken.

primary to subsequent legislation directed against speculation with the funds of depositors.

Will Ask Other Measures
He revealed also, that he soon will request congress to enact two other measures "of immediate urgency"—proposals believed in Democratic ranks at the capital to reduce government costs, including veterans' funds; and to provide $500,000,000 or so for public projects to spur employment.

Senator Glass in the senate and Representative Byrns in the house sponsored the banking bill aiming if possible to get it to the white house by tonight. This, it was believed, would enable bank reopenings tomorrow.

Among the crowds who filled the congressional galleries was the wife of the President. In the house, too, numerous friends of Representative Rainey of Illinois gathered to watch his formal election as speaker to succeed Vice President Garner.

HOME MAKING HELPS

To Beautify The Bathroom
Decorators, architects and plumbers have evolved some new and lovely bathrooms. It now seems that there can be no limit to the beauty and luxury of the bathroom. Walls, floors and plumbing fixtures are all designed to create a harmonious whole while mirrors, lamps, dressing tables, cabinets and shelves for cosmetics and bathroom supplies all follow the general decorative scheme.

More and more we are using the bathroom as a dressing room, a plan that enables us to keep the bedroom much cleaner and free from spilled powder, lotions and smears of cream. No matter how simple your bathroom may be, it can be fixed up to look attractive, and without spending a fortune on it.

Either a glass shelf is inexpensive and on it may be placed a triple mirror, a grand place for doing the hair or making up.

Convenient Fixtures
For those who like to linger in the tub and read as they bathe there are book racks that fasten to the rim of the tub. Rubber sponge cushions provide comfortable head rests by clinging to the inner surface. There are small bathroom scales to keep a stern check on that avoidpous and there are little stools that can be covered and used when dressing.

And for the room with running water that must often serve the business girl as living room, bedroom and bath, there has been evolved an ingenious idea. There is a new type of screen that not only hides the toilet wash basin from view, but forms a convenient dressing room as well.

If you are renting rooms of this type it might be well to inquire at your local store for such a screen. The outside is no different from the conventional screen and may be painted, papered or cloth covered to harmonize with the other furnishings in the room. But the inner surface holds a surprise. On the center panel a mirror is firmly secured, below is a shelf for powder, hair pins and other toilet necessities.

La Swanson Hit by Depression Huge Film Earnings Swallowed

Glamorous Screen Star and Husband Reported Stranded in Paris—Obliged to Cable Hollywood for Funds to Return Home.

GLORIA SWANSON and HUSBAND (Inset) BABY BRIDGET

The poverty that has been pinching everyone else hasn't missed Gloria Swanson, one of the most popular of the screen stars, according to reports going the rounds in Hollywood, where the gossip is saying that Gloria and her hubby, Michael Farmer, found themselves so broke in Paris that they were obliged to wire to Miss Swanson's studio for funds enabling them to return home. Hard luck has persistently haunted Miss Swanson for several months. The last blow of Fate was the collapse of a plan to make a picture in Europe. In the last few years, Gloria has made millions, her five more recent pictures alone netting her a cool $550,000. But it was reported that the crash of the stock market took most of her savings. First knowledge of Gloria's financial difficulties came when she stripped her Hollywood mansion of $50,000 worth of ornaments last September. And only recently the U. S. Government filed a tax lien on the star for $49,426—the amount said to be due Uncle Sam on her 1931 income. Although Michael Farmer, who married the star in 1931, was reputed to be a millionaire, the truth is that he is not wealthy. Some years ago Farmer was legally adopted by Mrs. Hubbard, a wealthy American widow whom he met in Paris. It was believed that Mrs. Hubbard had died and left Farmer her wealth, but Mrs. Hubbard is still hale and hearty, despite her great age. The Farmers have one child, Paddy Michael, born in London last year.

THEATER Attractions

A most fascinating and unusual film, taken from the famed short story by Richard Connell, is "The Most Dangerous Game," playing today only at the State theater.

Richard Connell's Story
The Connell story, by the same name, because of its very difference of plot won the coveted O'Henry prize in 1926 and is classed as one of the hundred best stories of the decade.

It tells the story of a nobleman, cultured and yet savage who, tired of hunting big game because it no longer held any thrills for him, has turned to hunting and tracking down humans. Far out on a little island off the Caribbean he engages in his gruesome "sport."

How does he get the humans to hunt down? He has false channel lights fixed in the sea so as to make it practically impossible for ships to get through. The survivors from the wrecked ships are his game.

McCreia In Cast
Joel McCreia is the sole survivor on his ship and he seeks shelter in what appears to be a beautiful estate, secluded on the island.

There he meets Fay Wray and Robert Armstrong, brother and sister, also shipwrecked and before long they realize they are all prisoners of this Count Zaroff, as the man-hunter called himself.

Leslie Banks, famed British actor, is cast as Count Zaroff and he is most excellent in a difficult role. A picture crammed full of thrills, romance, excitement and sensational highlights.

SELDOM, if ever, has the human side of prison life, with its laughter and tears, its romances, its thrills and its grim tragedies, been painted in such vivid and dramatic coloring as in "Twenty Years in Sing Sing," coming to the State theater Friday and Saturday.

This screen drama, taken from the book by Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison, who understands the life of the prisoners.

MARY LOU GOES SHOPPING

She is only eight, but even at this tender age, Mary Lou is a daily customer at the neighborhood stores. Perhaps it is a package of crackers, and a pound of coffee at the grocer's. Perhaps it is some tooth-paste or toilet soap at the drug store.

Of course Mary Lou doesn't decide on what she is going to buy. Her mother writes a list—this brand of crackers, this brand of coffee, this make of tooth-paste, this kind of soap. She knows the prices and gives Mary Lou just enough money, with an extra penny or two, perhaps, to spend for herself.

Buying is just as simple and easy as that because of just one thing—Advertising.

Advertising has given all of us a lot to be thankful for.

Because of advertising, people in Texas know about and buy Michigan motor cars. People in New Hampshire buy oranges raised in Florida and California. Because of advertising, merchants and manufacturers are forced to improve their products. It has standardized quality. It has increased consumption and thereby lowered costs. It promotes competition and thereby keeps dealers and merchants wide awake to secure for you the most for your money.

But best of all it writes "Finis" on the business career of any merchant or manufacturer who attempts to fool the public or give them less than value received.
